Bureau of Land Management Seeks Public Input on the Crescent Point Energy Utah Federal-Tribal Well Development Project

Vernal, Utah—The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) Vernal Field Office released a notice today announcing the start of a scoping process for an environmental impact statement (EIS) analyzing the impacts Crescent Point Energy's proposed Utah Federal-Tribal Well Development Project. The BLM is seeking public input on the proposed project and will accept comments through a 30-day scoping period, which ends Monday May 9, 2016.

The proposed project consists of the following elements: a proposal to drill up to 3,925 new oil and gas wells; build 863 miles of roads; 693 miles of pipelines co-located with the proposed roads; 170 miles of cross-country pipelines; 400 miles of trunk pipelines; five salt water disposal wells; five produced water treatment facilities; 20 central tank batteries; four gas processing plants; eight oil storage areas; and, four equipment storage areas. These activities would occur on Federal, tribal trust, allottee, State, and privately-owned or administered lands and mineral leases.

The project area is located in Duchesne and Uintah counties, and encompasses lands from one mile east of Myton, Utah, to one mile west of Highway 45. It is directly south of Roosevelt and Ballard cities, Utah, and north of the Ouray National Wildlife Refuge.

The BLM is seeking input from the public regarding issues and alternatives that should be considered during the EIS development process. To provide the public an opportunity to review the proposal and project information, the BLM will host open-house meetings as follows:

Roosevelt
April 26, 2016 from 5 to 7 p.m.
Chamber of Commerce 50 East 200 South, Roosevelt, UT

Fort Duchesne
April 27, 2016 from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.
Tribal Auditorium 910 South 7500 East, Fort Duchesne, UT

The meetings will be conducted by BLM staff. Representatives from Crescent Point Energy will attend the meetings and will be available to explain details of the proposal. Additional information about the project is included in the project scoping notice, which can be found on the BLM-Vernal Field Office website: <http://go.usa.gov/csakm>

Please reference “Crescent Point EIS” when submitting comments. Please submit comments on or before May 9, 2016. Comments on issues related to the Crescent Point Energy Utah Federal-Tribal Well Development Project may be submitted by any of the following methods:

The BLM manages more than 245 million acres of public land, the most of any federal agency. This land, known as the National System of Public Lands, is primarily located in 12 Western states, including Alaska. The BLM also administers 700 million acres of sub-surface mineral estate throughout the nation. The BLM's mission is to manage and conserve the public lands for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations under our mandate of multiple-use and sustained yield. In fiscal year 2014, the BLM generated $5.2 billion in receipts from public lands.
